

EXXON DEALER CLASS ACTION

If you were an Exxon dealer between March 1, 1983 and August 28, 1994, or if you own the rights to an Exxon dealership during that period, you may be entitled to recover money.

The deadline for filing claims has been extended to December 1, 2004.

In 2001, a jury found that Exxon had been overcharging all of its direct served dealers for the wholesale price of motor fuel from March 1, 1983, until August 28, 1994. The average overcharge was approximately 1.3 cents per gallon of motor fuel Exxon sold to the dealers.

All Exxon direct served dealers who bought motor fuel from Exxon between March 1, 1983 and August 28, 1994 pursuant to a Sales Agreement, and those people who purchased, inherited, or otherwise acquired dealers' rights, are now eligible to submit claims for reimbursement of the overcharge, except for dealers who previously requested to be excluded from the class. All those who seek to share in the recovery must submit a Proof of Claim form by December 1, 2004 (this date has been extended from August 29, 2004). If you do not submit a Proof of Claim form by December 1, 2004, you will not be able to recover any money even if you determine later that you are a member of the class.

What you should do if you think you may be entitled to recover

If you believe you are or may be a member of the class and want to pursue your claim, you should call 1-866-808-3591 or go to www.exxondealerclassaction.com and request a Proof of Claim form in the matter of Allapattah v. Exxon Corp.

When you receive the form, fill it out carefully and return it in accordance with the instructions that you will receive along with the form. You must submit your claim by December 1, 2004.
